Dear parents and carers

As part of the NHS Blood and Transplant department's Community Grants Funding Programme, we are delighted to be able to this week send home with every pupil a very special children's book telling the story of a Muslim family and their experience of Living Kidney donation. It is a gentle story that will help children think about the different ways of being a hero. The story ties in very well with our value for this half term – inspiration.

'A Different Kind of Hero'

"It's Hero Day at school and the children come to school in all sorts of costumes from superheroes to inspirational heroes. But, as they soon learn, heroes come in all shapes and sizes and can even be found in their own families!

We know that this book may not be appropriate for children of all ages, so please feel free to pass on to neighbours, friends and other families who may have younger children.

Best wishes
